Whilst I tried my best to highlight the significance and importance of the role that smiley face has for computer graphics; I don't personally feel like this paper is an exhaustive work that can clearly answer this question. As I believe further research and evidence finding would be beneficial to this subject to be able to prove this theory completely and without a shadow of a doubt, we can see that there is a clear connection between ancient hieroglyphs used in Egypt and smiley faces currently used by the masses to communicate. The clear message from this paper is that smiley faces have evolved over the years along technology and helped us develop our communication and creative skills.
